KALAMAZOO SPEEDWAY 2017 DIVISIONS

The Outlaw Super Late Models are Kalamazoo Speedway's premier division. These outlaw-bodied racecars have a full tubular frame, quick change rear ends and coil over suspension. Their engines are a cast iron block, but that's about the only original equipment on the drive train of one of these fast cars. You'll find the best of the best drivers coming from a tristate area. This division runs several races of 100 laps and more and are the stars of three of the Speedway's marquee events: The Gary Terry "Follow Your Dreams" 125, Kalamazoo Klash and the Super Shoe Nationals. Expect laps in the 12-13 second range (104-112 MPH). An Outlaw Super Late Model will have upwards of $40-50,000 into a typical operation.

The Super Stocks feature a great looking stock style template body similar to a NASCAR Monster Energy Cup car you'd see on TV. These cars race on 8" wheels and tires as opposed to the 10" wheels of an Outlaw Super Late Model and can run on either a stock or fabricated chassis. The Super Stocks are many tracks' top division. Expect lap times in the 13-14 second range (97-104 MPH). The cost to build a car is in the $25-30,000 range.

Keep your eyes on the Pro Stocks for exciting race night action. These cars are American made, rear-wheel drive with a stock frame and a relatively stock suspension. Powered by 350 or 400 cubic inch Chevrolet engines, you'll see a lot of horse power a top a smaller tire. Expect lap times in the 14-15 second range (90-97 MPH) as the Pro Stocks trade paint and run three-wide around the high banks of the Speedway. The cost to purchase and outfit the car is in the $15-20,000 range.

The Outlaw Cyber Stocks offer an authentic and relatively affordable racing experience for racers with fewer years of racing under their belts. All cars are front wheel drive with no super/turbo charged vehicles permitted. Cars must remain stock in their original form and shape. Expect lap times in the 15-16 second range (84-90 MPH). If you think that's dogging it give a thought to how fast that really is on a 3/8 mile oval in traffic. The cost to purchase and outfit a car is in the $5-8,000 range.

The Flip Flop Cyber Stocks are Kalamazoo Speedway's entry level division to introduce drivers to the world of short track racing. Like the Outlaw Cyber Stocks, all cars are front wheel drive. No convertibles, coupes or super/turbo charged vehicles are permitted. All cars are equipped with automatic transmissions and vehicles must remain stock, in their original form and shape, with stock suspension. The Rent-a-Ride cars also race in this division ensuring the crowd will see some unique displays of car handling. Surprisingly, it's rarely a demolition derby. The feature race might run in the traditional direction one week and, without warning, the opposite direction the next week. The "Flip Flop" is designed to keep everyone honest and the playing field level by discouraging car set-up. Expect lap times in the 18-19 second range (71-75 MPH). The cost to purchase and outfit a car is in the $2,500-4,000 range.
